

---

Interesting choice of tournament shirt design

Posted by folsoml - 2008/06/16 12:05

---

So I competed in a BJJ tournament this weekend, and the tournament shirt design had a image of a guy doing a harai goshi. I thought this was funny since the emphasis of BJJ is ground work. That beautiful throw the guy on the shirt was doing only got him two points. Would it not have been more appropriate to have a guy doing a juji gatame or hadaka jime?

=====

Re:Interesting choice of tournament shirt design

Posted by Stephen - 2008/06/16 12:12

---

Its a bit like wearing a KFC Tshirt while working at Mcdonalds,

You cant argue with the fact that BJC is becoming much more well known than Judo in the USA, we are fortunate enough to have a good Judo base here in the UK, but BJJ is creeping in, or should I say its pulling guard.

=====